

The goal of our rehab team is to help you get better and return safely to your own home and to life as you knew it. Physical and occupational therapists focus on regaining strength, balance, mobility, gait and activities of daily living. They help you return to an active life after hip, knee, shoulder, ankle and back surgeries.

Therapists also provide intensive therapy for neurological disorders such as stroke, multiple sclerosis, and spinal cord injuries.

Painful and debilitating problems such as arthritis, Parkinson's disease, neuritis, myositis, sprains and strains can be treated with a variety of thermal therapy, cryotherapy, electrotherapy, and exercise modalities.

Speech pathologists concentrate on reducing swallowing, language, communication and memory challenges.

Our rehab teams frequently intervene with folks who are weakened from bouts with pneumonia and flu, preparing them for a safe return home after hospitalization.
